

Bangladesh:

22 April, 2012: H5N1 outbreaks affect 25,000 poultry in Bangladesh

OIE-Follow-up report No. 39.. [\[more\]](#) [\[read more\]](#)

Bhutan:

20 April, 2012: Highly Pathogenic Avian Influenza outbreak, Follow-up report No. 6

One new H5N1 poultry outbreak. Information received on 20/04/2012 from Mr Tenzin Dhendup, Director, Ministry of Agriculture, Department of Livestock, THIMPHU, Bhutan [\[more\]](#).. [\[read more\]](#)

24 April, 2012: Anthrax outbreak in Bhutan

Anthrax detected on 17 April and reported on 24 April from Trongsa, District.. Two cattle were affected and both died and rest 18 in the farm are apparently free. [\[more\]](#)

India:

18 April, 2012: International egg and poultry review: India reports HPAI to OIE

The outbreak killed three birds; more than 35,000 birds in a three km radius zone were considered susceptible and were culled. Over the next several weeks outbreaks were reported in Orissa, Meghalaya, and Tripura. [\[more\]](#)

19 April 2012: FAO to probe resurgence of H5N1 virus in Tripura

AGARTALA: Reports of repeated resurgence of pathogenic H5N1 avian influenza in Tripura have prompted the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) to send a five-member specialist team to the state on Wednesday to investigate the matter. [\[more\]](#)

26 April, 2012: 83 heads of cattle died: scientists visit- Karnataka

Scientists from the Southern Regional Disease Diagnostic Laboratory (SRDDL), Bangalore, on Friday visited Henberu hamlet, where 83 heads of cattle died over the last one week. [\[more\]](#) [\[read more\]](#)

Nepal:

21 April, 2012: No bird flu in Saptari, it was CRD

Officials have confirmed that death of a large number of chicks at Phattepur in Saptari district was not because of bird flu. [\[more\]](#)

Neighboring Countries:

20 April, 2012: China culls nearly 100,000 chickens in response to bird flu

China's Ministry of Agriculture recently reported an outbreak of highly epidemic H5N1 avian influenza among poultry stocks. [\[more\]](#)

General Issues:

23 April, 2012: H5N2 avian flu does not affect humans: CDC

The H5N2 strain of avian influenza does not cause disease in humans, the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) said Monday after three people in Taiwan were confirmed Sunday to have tested. [\[more\]](#)